Our second week of second grade has been another big success! The kids have been very good workers! We did a couple practice centers this week and the kids did a nice job.

We've also been working right through our math book and have had a quiz already!

We had a great time at our first Character Ed Assembly of the year! Our theme is Say Yes to Nice! The Dexter Library is running this anti-bullying program and you will see information in your child's LION folder about it. I hope we can get everyone to participate!

Next week we will have baseline testing in math and ELA. This is not anything to stress about! The kids will be tested on concepts that will be taught in second grade. At the end of the year they will be tested again on these same concepts to check their growth. Because of the tests, our schedule might be a little wacky! But we will still do our regular work and we'll have our first reading test on Friday. Have a good weekend!

Looking Ahead...
